Traditional and historical pastoral care began to change in the early twentieth century with the development of psychotherapy and psychological counselling. As communities and people needs changed, a tension was created between the need for historical pastoral advice and psychological help (Benner, 2003: 13).

Pastoral Care in Historical Perspective: Clebsch,
William ...

The principal interest of pastoral care—whether exercised by clergy or laity—is the personal welfare of persons who are hurt, troubled, alienated, or confused within. The historical expressions of pastoral care have focused on the predominant—but not exclusive—expressions of ultimate concern characteristic of the period in question.
